THE NEW FRONTIER OF GLOBAL ENGAGEMENT

PYXERA Global
The name “PYXERA” originates from the fusion of two words: pyxis, an ancient Greek word for compass, and terra, the Latin word for earth. Together, these words communicate our commitment to navigating economic, geographic, and political realities to find common ground amongst diverse partners. The three colors of our logo represent the coming together of the public, private, and social sectors to build a better world.
At PYXERA Global, our mission is to reinvent how public, private, and social interests engage to solve global challenges.

From ensuring access to education and developing sustainable food systems to addressing climate change and growing inclusive economies, no one sector alone can achieve our shared vision of a better world. Yet through a culture of sustained collaboration, we have the ability to create mutual benefit and solve the pressing challenges facing society.

For nearly 30 years, we've brought together corporations, non-profits, social enterprises, academic institutions, and governments across more than 90 countries to create sustainable and scalable social impact. We have a passion for designing and implementing solutions that achieve global goals and also inspire, enrich, and endure.

Our Approach

CROSS-SECTOR PARTNERSHIP
Our nearly 30 years of social impact work across the globe has taught us that no single sector can solve a global challenge alone. Fortune 500 companies, governments, academic institutions, and social impact organizations make up our trusted network of collaborators.

SOLVABLE PROBLEMS
We identify the tangible problems impacting communities around the world and then work to bring together the appropriate players and proven solutions to address them.

LOCALLY DRIVEN SOLUTIONS
PYXERA Global works diligently from the outset of initiatives to connect with communities and to build a reliable understanding of the unique dynamics, challenges, and opportunities inherent to the local context. We don’t stop at engagement. Rather, we look to the community to drive program design and implementation, ensuring sustainable local ownership and enduring, systemic change.

“I was drawn to global pro bono because I saw it as a unique opportunity to apply my professional skills to support a nonprofit organization that otherwise would not have been able to access them...I’ve learned the importance of flexibility in adapting to a new business culture.”

Integrated Community Development

PYXERA Global pioneers ways to bring together diverse groups and leverage their abilities, interests, and resources in order to generate shared value. We apply our decades of experience to joining the objectives of funders—corporate, government, or multilateral—with the self-expressed needs of a community.

Promoting local ownership of development programs is always central to PYXERA Global’s integrated community development engagements. We know when to give way to build consensus, when to push for ways to bridge gaps, and when to lead the way to move a program out of design and into operation.

We listen to, adapt, and address the concerns and hopes of everyone at the table—workers, farmers, business owners, politicians, service providers, manufacturers, investors, educators, and developers. Programs are founded on a set of key principles:

- Comprehensive sustainability
- Community-owned and driven
- Economic empowerment
- Community cohesion
- Health and wellness
- Education
- Infrastructure
- Market information and access
We are more enlightened now on how to do business... We are also better educated on group dynamics and how to sell as an association.

Post-Harvest Loss Reduction

In Africa, 50 percent of fruits and vegetables, 40 percent of roots and tubers, and 20 percent of cereals perish after harvest or during processing. This market failure, known as post-harvest loss, is generally attributable to a lack of access to reliable market information, modern tools, technologies, improved agricultural inputs, and efficient and effective transportation and storage infrastructure.

PYXERA Global works across the food supply chain to implement inclusive, systems-based approaches to prevent the loss of valuable and nutritious crops. From wider adoption of technologies that keep food fresh longer to models of private sector engagement that ensure farmers have steady buyers for their yields, we work to ensure more food gets to more people.

MARKET LINKAGES
We fix links in the farms-to-market supply chain, working to guarantee farmers access to new and reliable markets.

RESOURCE ACCESS
We help ensure farmers have access to the technologies and training necessary to preserve crops during harvest, packaging, and distribution.

PRIVATE SECTOR ENGAGEMENT
We work with companies to build processing industries and invest in solutions for smallholder farmers that move more food to market quickly and reliably.

MEASUREMENT TOOLS
We create the tools businesses need to measure and track supply chain loss to encourage accountability, strengthen supply chains, and increase profits.
OUR GOAL IS SIMPLE: to enrich lives and livelihoods worldwide, inclusively and sustainably.
